AIMING HIGH → HARD WORK → ACHIEVEMENT

Dear SITAIANS,
Season's Greetings.

SITAA VOICE JUST COMPLETED 2 YEARS AND IS STEPPING INTO ITS THIRD YEAR. This is the first issue in its third year.

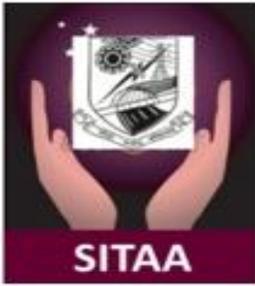

I am glad to present this issue of SITAA VOICE being released by the end of the First quarter of 2016-17. Subsequent to the celebration of 125th Birth anniversary of our legendary founder (late) Sri.V. Seshasayee, it was decided to conduct monthly Leadership Lectures, during one year as part of the 125th birth anniversary celebrations. By the time we celebrate Founder's 126th Birthday on 14-8-16, 12 leadership Lectures to motivate the students and staff would have been completed. I request all alumni to block 14th August 2016 to attend Founder's day function cum AGM of SITAA.

SIT will be honoring 3 of our Illustrious Alumni, Prof.P.Kothandaraman (Founder Secretary of SITAA), Mr.Rengarajan Srinivasan and Prof.J.Muralikrishnan. Quality of the brand ambassadors of SIT speak high of the alma mater. SITAA wishes every one of SIT alumni to be achievers in their own profession.

As Hon.Secretary of SIT, I have made an appeal to you all, after assessing the status of the institute. My appeal was to seek ONCE IN A LIFE TIME donation to SIT NOW to anchor it on sound bedrock financially. I am confident of your positive response very soon. SITAA helped couple of ongoing students to take care of hardship There are few more interesting events reported in this issue Please read on....

Enough about Millennials

Am I the only person in the world who is tired of hearing people talk about Millennials? Whether it's a complaint about their entitlement mentality or a declaration of their brilliance, it all strikes me as shallow and simplistic.

Now, I'm not denying that every generation has a few things that make it unique. Today's young people get their information differently than I did. I get that. And they communicate with one another using different devices than I did. No doubt. And I agree that they have different expectations around employment than I did. But isn't that true of every generation? Why is it that we seem to be fascinated with this new collection of human beings, as though they come from another planet?

My fascination with all this is related to my most recent book, The Ideal Team Player, because it has ramifications on how we go about bringing Millennials into a workforce that is increasingly team focused. There seems to be a fear on the part of recruiters and hiring managers that they'll be forced to deal with hordes of self-focused, isolated, and lazy geniuses who are incapable of working well with others.

As it turns out, there is a better way to think about hiring good people than focusing on a person's generational stereotype. It comes down to looking for three simple, timeless and observable virtues that are reliable predictors of whether someone of any age will be a good team player. Thankfully, while generations change, the nature of teamwork does not.

The first and most important of the three virtues is humility. And yes, plenty of Millennials are humble. Humility is a timeless virtue, one that society will always yearn for, even when its celebrities and cultural icons seem to renounce it. Plenty of Millennials are just as tired of self-indulgence and narcissism as the rest of us. They're capable of caring for others more than themselves, and have the ability to enjoy team success more than individual achievement.

Another critical virtue is hunger, the desire and willingness to work hard, to go above and beyond what is required for something worthwhile. While paper routes and lawn-mowing businesses for teenagers may seem like a thing of the past, hard work and sacrifice is alive and well among young people. The question is whether or not they've ever been made to work hard. I'm convinced that a large percentage of people in any demographic group, including Millennials, are capable of hard work, and a certain percentage are destined to be slackers. The key is finding the right ones to hire, and weeding out the others.

The third virtue that indicates that a potential new hire will be a good team player is what I call "smarts", which is having common sense about people, and knowing how one's words and actions impact others. While it may be true that Millennials have spent a disproportionate amount of their time using abbreviations and emojis to communicate, it doesn't take long for them to adjust when they realize that the guy or gal sitting next to them in a meeting needs a little eye-contact and emotional connection. All human beings, yes, even teenagers, yearn for interpersonal connection and are capable of embracing it.

And so, let's take a breath and realize that our society, and our economy, will survive the onslaught of Millennials. Companies that place a high priority on teamwork, on finding people who are humble, hungry and smart, will have no problem with them, or with any other generation for that matter.

In the spirit of this current generation, I'll close with a tweetable summary: Team work is not limited to any one generation. Millennials aren't so special. In fact, they'll be just fine.

STANDARDISED DAY FOR ANNUAL DAY OF S.I.T AND ALUMNI DAY

All of you are aware that hitherto, Annual day of S.I.T and Alumni day were celebrated on the same day in the Forenoon and Afternoon respectively. This was an arrangement started during the period of (Late) Sri.G.Sundaram as Hon.Secretary of SIT on the formation of Alumni association of SIT, on his advice. This made quite a number of alumni participate in both the functions so far.

But this day was not fixed but used to be celebrated on different days in February or March every year.

When Mr.G.M.Rajendran and myself were working on the biography of our founder, we thought that it is needed to give due importance to the founder's birth day and also the founding day of S.I.T

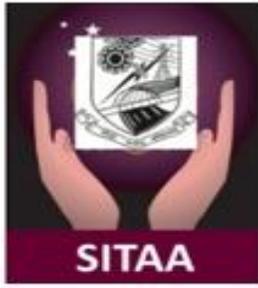

SIT was founded on 28th January 1952. We discussed with principal S.I.T and also Chairman of Governing Council of S.I.T Sri.V.K.Seshasayee about anchoring 28th January of every year as the fixed day for holding Annual day of S.I.T and also Alumni day in the F.N and AN respectively. Accordingly, from 2016 onwards Annual day of SIT will be in the F.N and Alumni day will be celebrated in the A.N of 28th January 2016, as a regular feature.

Annual day of SIT and Alumni day will be celebrated on 28th January every year.

Founder's day of SIT will be celebrated on 14th August every year.

Annual General Body meeting of SITAA, a statutory requirement will also be held on the 14th August every year.

All are requested to attend the functions. By the optimisation of the dates, alumni can participate in both the functions on fixed days annually.

CONTRIBUTION OF SITAA FOR AN INDIGNANT STUDENT TO CONTINUE HIS STUDIES IN SIT

In SITAA VOICE of December'15 issue, we have highlighted about Mr.K.Balakumar, student of SIT now in III year DME. Mr.Balakumar is a fatherless boy with very sick mother and a younger sister. He was very studious in high school. Having known of the condition of this boy, who had the scholastic potentials for higher studies, he was adopted by Vivekananda Seva Samithi, Kumbakonam. He was necessarily required to stay in SIT hostel. Vivekananda Seva Samithi, due to limitation of their funds, can pay a maximum of only Rs.12, 500/= for the boarding and lodging in Hostel, besides defraying his tuition and other fees to SIT.

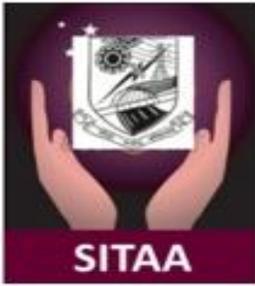

On the recommendations of Principal, SITAA paid Rs. 7,500 to the Hostel for the current term, to enable him to continue his studies on 30-06-2016. SITAA wishes the boy all success.

SITAA Congratulates Miss. Devi Maheshwari

We reported in March'15 issue of her suffering from a life paralysing neurological disease. SITAA and also several alumni, students and staff of SIT pooled more than Rupees one lakh for her treatment, which the family could not afford. She got cured and completed Diploma in Paper Technology with a good placement with SPB Projects & Consultancy Ltd at Chennai

Inauguration of First Year Diploma Course – 2016-17 on 16-6-2016

A function was organized at SIT for the inauguration of first year Diploma classes for the academic year 2016-17. Dr. S.Sudharssanam, Hon. Secretary presided over the function. Thiru S.Sampath, CEO, Vel Murugan Industries, Trichy & Chairman, CII, Trichy Zone inaugurated the course by lighting the Kuthu Vilakku. He delivered the inaugural address by highlighting the importance of technical education and the alacrity of SIT. He emphasized that discipline and hard work alone will give success in life. He informed the freshers to be proud that they have been admitted in SIT, a pioneering Institution. He reinforced that they should make use of this Golden Opportunity to become good citizens and proficient Engineers. Thiru.N.Kanagasabapathi, President of the Tiruchirappalli Small Scales Industries Association, an alumnus of our Institution also participated in the function. He inspired the audience and expressed his gratitude to his Almamatar for the success in his career.

Warren Buffet's Secret of Happiness

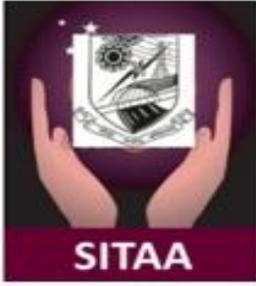

Mr. Warren Buffet is one of three richest men in the world. He lives in a small three bedroom house, drives his own car, never travels by private jet, wears what is comfortable but not branded, and has donated over 31 billion dollars to charity without making a show of it. And he is the happiest man. His belief is that the happiest people are those who spend their wealth in a manner that makes a difference in the lives of others.

In his maiden visit to India in March 2011, Mr. Warren Buffet said that life is about planting trees for others to sit under and enjoy their shades and fruits. Elaborating this he said : "Somebody planted a tree for me long ago in the form of an educational institution and I sat under that tree, metaphorically".

"The greatest joy comes in life when you invest in others". - Baba Amte
